What is this product?

Type

The fund is an undertaking for collective investments in transferable securities as defined in Act no. 116/2021 on Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities (UCITS). UCITS have more restricted investment authorisations than alternative investment funds. The fund's investment authorisations are specified in the section on investment strategy in its prospectus.

Name

Stefnir - Sustainable Arctic Fund (UCITS)

Objectives

The fund's objective is to primarily invest in listed equities of companies operating or having activities in the Arctic regions, specifically the countries that are members of the Arctic Council. The fund considers environmental, social, and governance (ESG) factors in its investment decisions to reduce risk and achieve sustainable long-term returns. The fund management is based on tactical asset allocation with frequent adjustments to the asset composition.

The fund operates according to a predetermined investment strategy and will direct its investments towards opportunities that, in the opinion of the manager, are most likely to yield the best returns. Investments are made according to the management company's policy on responsible investing.

The fund is authorised to invest at its discretion in equities listed on regulated securities markets (80-100%), bonds listed on regulated securities markets (0-20%), deposits of financial institutions (0-10%), foreign money market funds (0-10%), derivatives for position-taking (0-25%), and other financial instruments not mentioned above (0-10%).

The fund's returns depend on the increase or decrease in the market value of the fund's assets during the investment period, i.e., the period during which you hold units in the fund. Investors should understand that the fund's value can decrease as well as increase, and they must be able to withstand price fluctuations, as short-term volatility can be significant. The fund is well-suited for those looking to invest for the long term, ideally seven years or more.

Intended retail investor

The fund is designed for both the general public and institutional investors, such as pension funds and companies, who wish to choose an investment option involving funds for collective investments operated and managed by professionals and in accordance with current legislation and supervision of such funds. It is suitable for those who can tolerate significant fluctuations in returns and are able to withstand potential investment losses.

Term

The fund is an open-ended fund and has no maturity date. However, the manufacturer has the right to close the fund under certain circumstances, such as if the manufacturer deems it more favorable for the shareholders to close the fund or merge it with another fund. More information can be found in Article 8, Appendix I of the fund's prospectus. It is possible to purchase and redeem unit certificates in the fund on all regular business days under normal circumstances, with transactions prices based on the end of the business day.
